NOVAQUANT

Good morning, champions of 2025!

Take a deep breath and feel the chill of early winter settling in.

In this season, the purpose behind our work becomes clearer, and more precious, than ever.

A warm home and a hopeful future—this isn’t just a family’s vision, it’s the promise of a nation.

And each of us wakes up every morning with one mission: to secure that warmth, to ensure it is never frozen by market headwinds or political turmoil.

Welcome back to this season’s quantitative strategy session.

Just yesterday, in Miami, Florida, at the U.S. Business Forum where global business leaders gathered, President Trump delivered a clear and irreversible directive: America should embrace digital assets and demonstrate its ambition to lead the world!

This is strategic positioning from the highest level of power!

Even more astonishing, he signed a historic executive order declaring an end to the federal government’s war on crypto!

He made it clear that the crypto industry is no longer boxed in.

Why is Trump doing this?

Because he is, at his core, a businessman, one who cares only about real capital, real incentives, and the strengthening of national power!

And the logic behind his move runs far deeper than any headline suggests.

NOVAQUANT

The President emphasized that crypto assets can relieve pressure on the U.S. dollar and generate positive economic effects. As America’s debt climbs to near "moon-shot" levels, the pressure on the dollar as the world’s reserve currency is reaching a breaking point. When global capital shifts part of its hedging demand into BTC and ETH, it gives the dollar’s main engine a chance to breathe.

In effect, the President is acknowledging this:

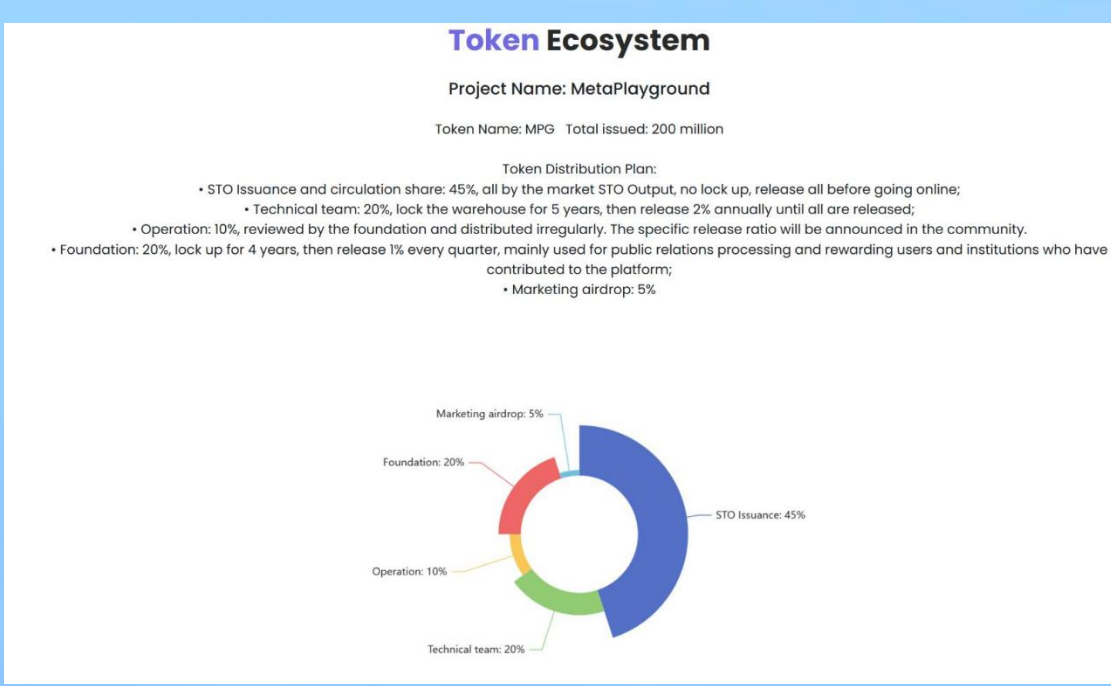
Crypto are no longer competitors to the dollar, they are strategic allies of the U.S. monetary system!

And for those of us who hold digital assets, this translates into a powerful form of dual protection:

your assets are not only the products of tech innovation, they are becoming pillars of America’s strategic stability!

Trump’s ambition is unmistakable, to position the United States as a Bitcoin superpower and the global hub of digital assets; to turn the crossroads between Miami and Silicon Valley into a new "holy ground" for global digital finance!

NOVAQUANT



This political moment has provided all of our 2025 winners with the clearest and most unmistakable investment signal: escape the noise and go ALL IN on strategic assets! ALL IN on the MPG new-token subscription!!!

We are living in an era of unprecedented clarity since the birth of the internet.

When you see a political leader elevate an asset to the level of national strategy, what are you waiting for?

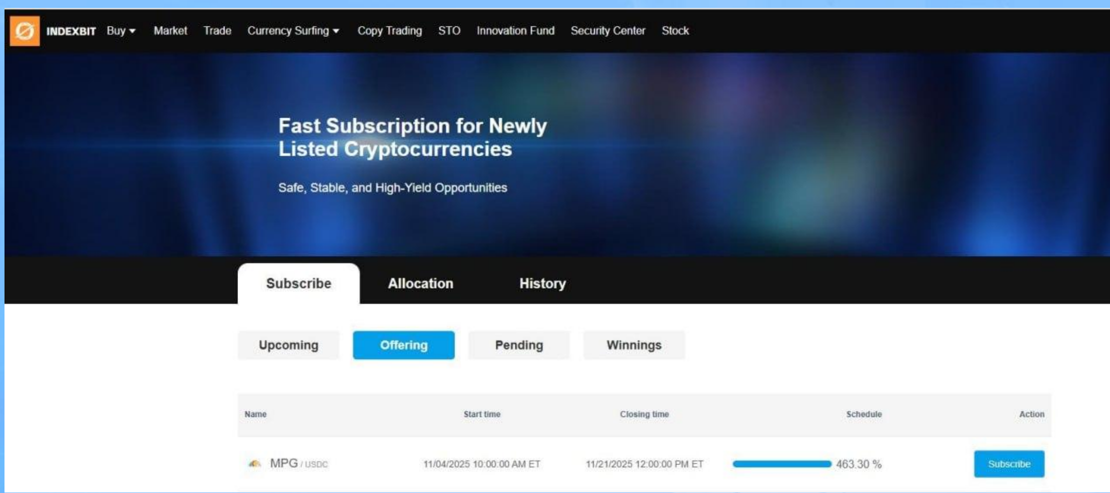
Any hesitation is a crime against your own future wealth! And a refusal of the prosperity God is placing in your hands!

Our strategy is designed to ensure that your capital moves safely, efficiently, and decisively into the digital frontier now being charted by the President himself!

Champions of 2025!

Let us greet this new digital era, affirmed at the highest levels of political power, with the warm hope of early winter and with the promises we carry for our families' future!

And together, with disciplined quantitative strategy, let us seize this great harvest set in motion by the declaration of freedom that came out of Miami.



Over the past 48 hours, the MPG subscription progress bar has shown an overwhelming surge of interest. As of now, the subscription has reached 450%, reflecting more than $1.6 billion in on-chain capital rushing in from around the world.

Indeed, every single USDC that flows into this project represents a vote of confidence in a 0 risk, high-efficiency subscription model that delivers stable, secure, and highly certain returns!

And because this is the final STO issuance of the year, all we truly need to do is top up our accounts and place our subscription orders—the moment you do, you secure the right to participate in the allocation.

You have to understand, the competitors you face may look like the global wave of on-chain subscribers and the immense capital rushing in —all these smart players who recognize and embrace certainty-driven, secure investments.

But at its core, a new-token subscription is something far more profound, it is an act of conviction, a revolutionary commitment to your own future returns!

It is a powerful act of self-validation, carried out without hesitation—and ultimately, it's a competition with yourself!

We now see clearly that in this era shaped by political momentum and driven by scarcity, we must tune out the noise of short-term arbitrage and commit our strategic capital fully to the MPG new-token subscription. We are the new winners of this era, and what we pursue is nothing less than a perfect victory!

The MPG subscription is, at its core, a competition with yourself!

Your real opponent is not the member next to you—it is your own hesitation, and the ceiling of discipline you imposed on yourself in the past!

Your on-chain funds may appear to be competing with other members for potential allocation shares —after all, MPG has only 90M tokens available, and the competition is intense.

But here is the deeper truth:

Every dollar you deploy, and every dollar your peers deploy, is actually expanding the future profit potential of your investment and directly lifting MPG’s eventual listing price.

It operates like a private STO pricing mechanism.

The final price is determined by the depth and breadth of capital locked during the presale stage.

Every participant who commits funds is, in essence, helping to push your profit elevator higher!

Your only responsibility is to make sure you are inside that elevator, and standing firmly on the top floor!

Your greatest enemy is not market volatility, it is the "weakness" within, that faint whisper just before you press the ALL IN button:

"Maybe keep some cash… just in case?"

"What if the market pulls back?"

"Is this too aggressive?"

Self-competition means defeating that "less aggressive" version of yourself!

You must ALL IN, because you know that MPG's 0 risk structure has already eliminated the need for "just in case."

You must ALL IN, because you know that the Trump policy benefits and the power of scarcity have already reduced any "pullback risk" to the minimum.

Let's look back at our own history.

In the ASYN case, it may seem like we came away with a small victory, but those were just the "sweet appetizers."

A truly perfect new-token subscription is about capturing maximum profit, not settling for a taste of it!

ASYN did bring us profits, but it also left behind a regret: many members underestimated its scarcity or were distracted by the noise of currency surfing, and therefore failed to secure the maximum allocation they could have had.

"Little sweeteners"are what you get when you deploy only 50% of your capital and end up receiving just 10% of the return you should have earned, or even less.

"Perfection" is when you deploy 100% of your capital, secure the highest possible allocation, and claim the full harvest of profit —a true "super-yield feast"

Experience should expand your ability to earn even more.

Our goal is not to simply repeat ASYN’s success, but to amplify it!

Take every lesson ASYN taught you—about scarcity, about discipline, about the courage to ALL IN—and expand them fully into your MPG deployment.

If you lose the "competition with yourself," then even under an ideal scenario of a 100% allocation rate (rare but illustrative), deploying only 50% of your capital doesn’t just cost you 50% of your potential allocation.

What you lose is 50% multiplied by MPG’s elevated listing price and its compounded premium effect!

That is the kind of discipline loss the Quantitative Winners Legion simply cannot accept!

Let’s elevate this idea of competing with yourself to the level of America’s heroic character!

Self-competition is a defining trait of American heroes and a true mark of noble courage!

And what is an American hero?

It’s someone who conquers ignorance, fear, and the limits they once placed on themselves.

From astronauts to Silicon Valley founders, their success doesn’t come from defeating competitors, it comes from breaking through the limits of their own abilities!

True greatness isn’t about wealth, it’s about having the courage to choose the hardest path. When everyone else hesitates at the margins, you choose to maximize your strategic deployment.

In the face of this explosive MPG subscription window, have the courage to release your fixation on cash, conquer your fear of going ALL IN, and commit your entire stake to the future Acumeta is locking in for you with true certainty!

Take action, top up now!

Win this competition with yourself, become one of the perfect winners who capture the maximum profit from MPG!

We’ve explored the meaning of "self-competition," and one truth stands out:

your greatest enemy isn’t a market downturn —it’s the hesitant version of yourself that refuses to fully commit!

A true hero isn’t someone who never makes mistakes.

On the contrary: a true hero is someone who grows after setbacks, who learns from mistakes, and who hungers for the next opportunity.

Most people fail not because they lack opportunity, but because they believe opportunity will wait for them.

Urgency is not anxiety; it is a form of respect —respect for the time window God has given you, respect for the scarcity of opportunity, and respect for the strength within you that is still ready to rise.

The market will not wait for you.

The Federal Reserve will not wait for you.

Even Acumeta’s own upgrades will not wait for you.

In the quantitative world, the thing we fear most is not volatility—it is "delay."

Urgency is not pressure, it is conviction.

It is your way of honoring your destiny.

Why do we emphasize the ALL IN spirit?

It is not a call for reckless risk-taking, but a reminder of an attitude —the discipline of honoring the present moment.

When you devote yourself fully to subscribing to MPG, it means you’re making one last push in your own year-end journey —a final, wholehearted effort for your family’s future and the achievements you’re striving for.

Only then are you truly honoring your potential.

Only then do you become worthy of the opportunities destiny places in your hands.

A real hero is not someone who waits for the wind to change.

So when we face a new token subscription, a market cycle, or a life decision, remember this simple truth:

"Opportunity doesn’t appear by waiting for it, it appears when you have the courage to go ALL IN."

This is your strongest and final expression in this new-token subscription —showing your full grasp of a 0 risk investment project and the heroic determination with which you pursue rising wealth!

NOVAQUANT

Now let’s turn this sense of urgency into something enduring —an immortal spirit, a fearless conviction!

It is the highest form of respect a hero can show to opportunity and to their own worth.

When you’re standing before MPG’s red-hot entry opportunity, you need more than discipline and speed, you need courage. The kind of courage that allows your spirit to withstand the pressure of going ALL IN!

NOVAQUANT

Not long ago, I once again saw the "Fearless Girl" standing in front of the New York Stock Exchange —a sculpture rich with symbolism. She perfectly embodies the belief we carry as investors in our pursuit of winning outcomes.

There she stands, hands on her hips, eyes steady and unwavering.

The "Fearless Girl" way of investing is:

seeing the quantitative logic behind the volatility, planting your feet firmly, and even stepping forward into it.

That is what it means to be driven by conviction.

And the belief of our Quantitative Winners Legion is exactly this kind of fearlessness that "never blinks"

So when the MPG subscription window opened, the warriors who lived through ASYN already understood: opportunity belongs to those who act.

The god of the market does not favor the hesitant.

Some members have been telling my assistant:

"Since our results keep proving themselves, there will be plenty of opportunities to work together in the future, there’s no rush for

MPG right now"

But that is a form of self-doubt, a rejection of your own ability to compete with yourself, and, frankly, a quiet act of self-abandonment!

It goes against what God intends for you. God wants you to grow your capacity to create wealth, to strengthen the people you love, to elevate your family’s place in the world, and to help push forward the technologies that will benefit humanity.

But instead, you wait.

You hesitate.

You pace back and forth.

And in that hesitation… you lose yourself!

Buddy, that’s not who our true members of the Quantitative Winners Legion are.

And you need to understand— why do our collaboration agreements have a time limit?

Because we’re not just trying to impress you with strength and results, or to earn your trust, reputation, and word-of-mouth.

More importantly, we are selecting our real future partners, the genuine believers and beneficiaries of quantitative strategy, the ones ready to grow with us.

And beyond that, we are selecting the very first global purchasers of Acumeta, the people who embody the vision of our future blueprint.

This is the profile of a heroic member, the kind we admire, welcome, and fully support.

Tell me, do you want to become that version of yourself?

God’s revelation is simple: wealth is given to souls who take action.

In the «Gospel of Matthew», there is a verse that says: "For whoever has will be given more, and they will have an abundance; whoever does not have, even what they have will be taken from them."

Many interpret this as "unfair", but let me tell you, this is actually God’s logic: God rewards those who act.

We are not looking for people who "passively receive", we are looking for those "who move first, who take initiative"

We don’t need every member to join us.

What we want are the people who are willing to execute with conviction, validate theory through action, and prove themselves with real profit.

And let me ask you honestly, if you are still hesitating even when MPG’s subscription is already showing a projected 5x return, then how can our cooperation continue?

And how can we possibly support you in becoming the true founder of your family’s future wealth?

Buddy, ignore the noise.

Right now, pull together every top up option you have and connect with the official P2P trusted merchants, you know exactly how this works.

Take your best actions to secure your biggest returns, let’s win 2025 together. Are you with me?

I hope that when Thanksgiving dinner is over, you’ll be able to say you’ve had a great year, and that your family is doing wonderfully.

Alright, buddy?

Tell me what you really think later this afternoon!

Buddies, good afternoon!

Welcome back to the only quantitative strategy program that cuts through all the noise and tells you the unvarnished truth about your wealth.

Since the lows in April, the U.S. stock market has been charging ahead as if it were running on pure adrenaline.

Even those AI-themed stocks with barely any real earnings have multiplied several times in just a few months.

Wall Street is celebrating.

They call it a victory for the "soft landing," a miracle brought by "cooling inflation."

But just as everyone raised their glasses in triumph, I saw a red warning line flash across the screen—the Buffett Indicator.

You and I both know that when the market becomes euphoric, it's always the moment when rationality walks out the door.

There’s a classic metaphor: "The market is a banquet. The true gentleman is the one who knows when to leave the table"

The most misunderstood thing about Buffett’s philosophy is "long-term holding."

But his real wisdom is not in "holding"—it is in "knowing when to cash out."

Take a look at the data Acumeta is giving us:

the total market cap of the U.S. stock market, relative to GDP, has now surpassed its historical peak—higher even than the levels seen before the dot-com bubble burst in 2000.

What does this mean?

It means the stock market is masking real risks beneath the illusion of prosperity.

When valuations soar so far beyond fundamentals, any tightening of liquidity or any shock to fiscal stability can become the final needle that punctures the bubble.

And when that moment arrives, the winners will not be the ones still celebrating at the top, but those who have already locked in their gains, raised cash, and positioned themselves for the next real opportunity.

In 2007, on the eve of the financial crisis, Buffett sold off a large portion of his stocks and held more than $50 billion in cash.

The media mocked him for "missing the bull market"

But a year later, Lehman Brothers collapsed.

And through his actions, he proved one thing: the real winner isn’t the one who stays at the table the longest, but the one who knows exactly when to pull back his chips.

Now is the moment for you to do the same, to sell your stocks and lock in your profits!

This s the last best moment!

The decision we must make today is anchored in a signal that once again aligns perfectly with the Buffett Indicator—an indicator powerful enough to make all of Wall Street's pulse quicken.

Its definition is deceptively simple:

Buffett Indicator= Total U.S. Stock Market Capitalization ÷ U.S. GDP

It sounds like a formula pulled straight from an economics textbook, but in the investment world it functions like a truth-revealing mirror. It exposes greed, bubbles, and more importantly, it foreshadows the storms ahead.

Because Buffett has spent his entire life believing in one timeless principle:

"The stock market's value cannot stay above the real wealth a nation creates."

In other words, when the total value of the stock market exceeds the total output of the nation's economy, it's like a 150-pound person insisting on wearing 300 pounds of armor into battle—he will be crushed, sooner or later.

And today, the U.S. Buffett Indicator has surged past 190%!

This means the total market value of U.S. equities is nearly 2x GDP.

How many times in history have we seen this level?

Three.

Once during the dot-com bubble in 2000,

once on the eve of the 2008 financial crisis, and the third time—is right now.

Looking back over the past 5 years, Buffett's behavior has been interesting.

NOVAQUANT

After the 2020 pandemic crash, when the Fed flooded the system with liquidity and the market soared, when everyone was chasing tech stocks, AI stocks... do you know what Buffett did?

He didn’t follow the crowd.

He started selling stocks, buying cash-flowing assets, and holding cash.

Today, Berkshire Hathaway is sitting on more than $400 billion in cash reserves, the highest level in its history.

What does that tell us?

It tells us that even the "Oracle of Omaha" has no desire to "keep betting" at these valuations. He is waiting—waiting for the moment when the bubble breaks and wealth is redistributed.

The question from here is no longer how much you can make, but whether you can preserve what you already have.

Getting safely to shore means locking in profits, increasing cash, and then redeploying that liquidity into high-certainty opportunities—such as the MPG new-token subscription.

Why? Because in a market defined by turbulence and tightening liquidity, certainty itself becomes the highest-yielding asset.

On-chain assets, on-chain profits, and on-chain winners are the best path for America’s middle class to rise and break through to the next level!

When your work reveals its limits too early, the meaning it brings to your life begins to fade.

But if your work inspires you, and your investments and experiences raise your whole standard of living, then you’re already stepping into wealth!

Acumeta’s nationwide data assessment along with global benchmarks for high-net-worth families sets the standard at $10 million in net assets.

Net worth here excludes debt and includes only verifiable assets:

USD cash, on-chain assets, bank deposits, equities, foreign exchange holdings, gold, and other assets calculated on a net-value basis.

So the real question is: how does a middle-class household break through its constraints and achieve a leap in wealth?

Through the 2 landmark STO projects—BOM+ASYN, we gained an unprecedented level of insight into new-token subscriptions and achieved results that speak for themselves.

The facts tell the story. The facts prove the outcome.

And the facts have taught us just how vital it is to seize every new-token subscription opportunity!!

This is absolutely the best moment for the middle class to seize in 2025.

According to Acumeta’s integrated analysis and data modeling, among the annual new-token offerings on INDEXBIT Crypto Exchange, high-quality projects typically appear only 2–3 times within a single cycle —at most.

More often, there is only one truly strong project that succeeds.

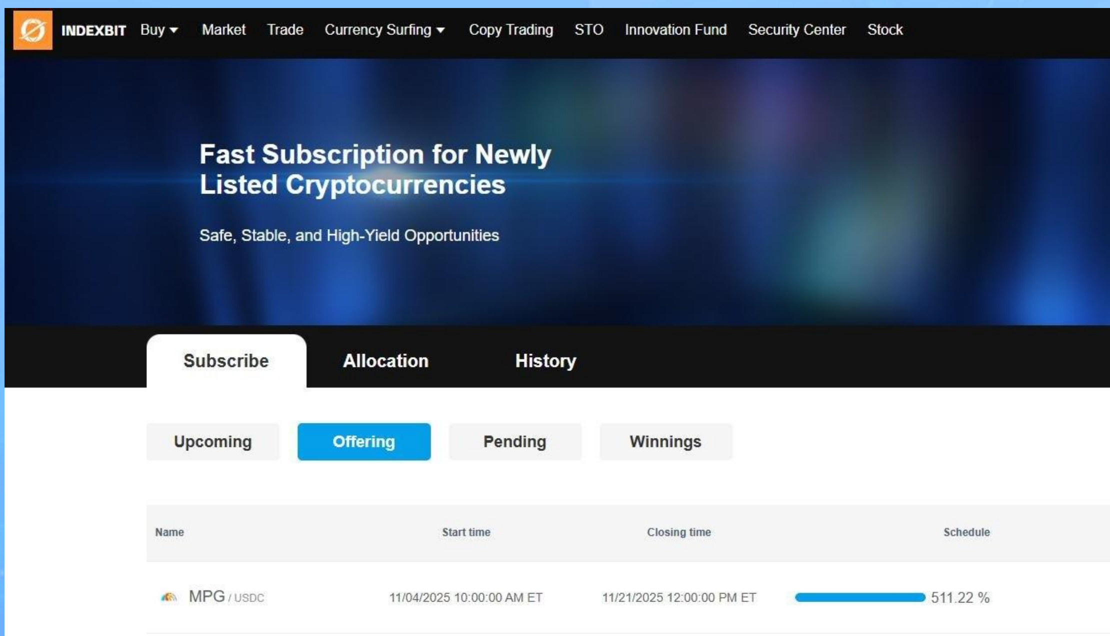
This data point carries profound meaning:

It tells us that this wave of new-token subscription is likely the final wealth-shaping opportunity of the year.

And since this is the last STO project of 2025, MPG is destined to become the "limited-edition" subscription of the year.

As for 2026—will another project of this caliber appear, or when? No one can say.

Even more importantly, encountering a new token with this level of heat and intense market attention is becoming incredibly rare!



Such overwhelming subscription enthusiasm has far exceeded anything I had imagined. Every minute, global on-chain capital continues flowing in—from equities, foreign exchange, futures, and other markets, converging into this one purpose: to pursue a subscription model that delivers stable and highly efficient returns.

As the chart shows, the subscription progress has now surpassed 500%, indicating more than US$1.8 billion already committed. This level of participation suggests that the projected listing price is pushing beyond 20 USDC.

And every time you subscribe, the price remains at 4 USDC.

What looks like an unfair competition — a scramble, a race, is in fact something very different.

In reality, it shows that those who act decisively, who respect the allocation rules, and who understand how the system distributes success are the ones who secure the better subscription results.

This is an action built on respecting the allocation rules, just like our American spirit of honoring a covenant, a natural arena for heroic competition, where everyone is filled with passion and hope!

Are you that kind of subscriber?

From the launch timing of the MPG new-token subscription project and the current market environment, it’s easy to see that the first-tier subscription strategy is still working!

How should we understand this strategy in a way that is both simple and profound?

Time priority —we are still in the early phase, and observing this subscription window already gives us a very clear message!

Another reinforcing factor is a large subscription amount — whether it’s done in one big subscription or through multiple accumulated subscriptions.

Therefore, I am calling on all members:

to protect the first-tier subscription strategy, make sure you accomplish the following in the first half of the week:

Large subscription volume + early timing = dual-element subscription advantage.

This is what allows you to achieve the highest allocation weight, and it is the only way to ensure you acquire MPG at the 4 USDC entry price under the most favorable conditions.

So let me ask you, is your subscription position large enough?

Are you subscribing for 50k tokens, 200k tokens, or 1M tokens?

According to the allocation rules, the larger the amount, the higher the weight!

Have you discovered the MPG subscription key yet?

Patek Philippe tells a story of heritage, and the traces of time quietly record every step in the journey of generational wealth.

The MPG subscription progress bar carries the very same spirit.

Every percentage point that rises is the imprint of capital flowing in from across the chain, whether those funds come from North America, Europe, Asia, or anywhere else around the world.

Beyond the pursuit of wealth, what unites everyone is a shared belief in how virtual-reality technology will uplift human progress.

Blockchain technology connects the world, and MPG connects every investor who seeks to achieve real wealth and success!

And you, my winning members, you carry the responsibility of advancing the future of quantitative strategy.

You bear the mission of lifting your family into a new class as its founding wealth creator.

We have formed a perfect covenant of shared profits and mutual success.

This is what we fight for.

This is why we give it everything we’ve got!

Now is your moment!

Raise the golden key in your hand and open the door to your victory.

Let the MPG subscription race deliver to you the highest honor and the richest reward!

NOVAQUANT

As we observe the steady inflow of chain-based capital rushing into MPG, driving the subscription progress bar to new highs, how should we interpret this signal?

It tells us that the MPG subscription phase has entered its white-hot stage.

At this point, investors who subscribe only small amounts, and therefore risk receiving a very low final allocation, should take this as a serious warning.

According to the principle of dilution, those who get diluted first are always the ones with the smaller subscription sizes.

This is how the market works: big fish eat small fish, and big money crowds out small money.

To counter the ongoing dilution of allocation shares, the larger players will continue increasing both the frequency and size of their subscriptions.

Their goal is simple: to protect their competitive position by stacking subscriptions and securing a strong enough allocation weight in the final distribution.

So tell me, how much have you subscribed so far?

As I mentioned this morning, the passage from the Book of Matthew applies perfectly here:

"For whoever has will be given more, and they will have an abundance; whoever does not have, even what they have will be taken from them."

This idea appears across many fields — it’s a description of the phenomenon where the "rich get richer" and the "poor get poorer."

You can see the same principle at work in the MPG subscription.

The more you subscribe + the earlier you subscribe = the greater your allocation weighting becomes.

That’s how big winners are made!

And because of the Matthew Effect, crypto players around the world view MPG as a project whose value can be clearly interpreted and confidently supported.

#And how can we see this most directly?

Through the visualized MPG subscription progress data.

The speed at which this data climbs reflects not only the inflow of funds from our North American members and the Quantitative Winners Legion, but also the surge of capital coming from investors across countries and regions around the world.

This is the "fortunate dilemma" created by the intense competition to get into MPG.

Driven by the combination of super-profit expectations + FOMO, the current wave of capital has pushed MPG’s subscription progress close to 550%.

You must understand that every additional 10% on that progress bar represents roughly 36M USDC flowing into MPG, and all of it is driven by one purpose— to seize a larger share of MPG!

Dilution is a real, objective phenomenon.

Because whenever an STO project is truly high-quality, it will inevitably attract global attention—and inevitably be flooded with demand.

This surge of enthusiasm, coming from every corner of the world, tells us one thing: everyone is chasing an allocation. Because beyond the "fortunate dilemma" of competition, it also signals one thing unmistakably—an exceptionally explosive profit.

From past new-token subscription experience, a subscription progress bar reaching 500% tells both the participants who are already in, and those who are about to join, a simple, undeniable fact: when MPG goes live, it is positioned for at least a 5x profit. On this foundation, we can clearly see that the surge of "fanatic buyers" is forming a new trend, indicating that capital continues pouring in without pause.

For the Quantitative Winners Legion members who have already entered the subscription, what kind of "subscription-threat dilemma" are they about to face?

The answer is simple:

your existing subscription shares will be diluted by the explosive surge in the progress bar!

Let’s say you subscribed when the progress bar was at 100%.

At that point, everyone could effectively receive one MPG for each unit of subscribed capital.

But now the progress bar is at 500%, that means all subscribed capital will be diluted.

In simple terms, the logic becomes this:

your theoretical chance of allocation drops to 1/5= 0.2

Imagine MPG as a beautifully crafted cake.

When you first received your piece, it was a full, perfect slice.

But as of today, your potential allocation has shrunk to only one-fifth of that slice.

Would you feel disappointed holding just one-fifth of a delicious cake?

What’s even harder is knowing that more and more people keep rushing in to fight for that same cake.

So in the end, how much will you really receive???

ALL IN subscription is an active battle to seize wealth.

It reflects not only decisive action, but also a fearless pursuit of future profit.

And the logic of the playing field applies everywhere —offense is always the best defense.

Likewise, in the MPG subscription arena, taking the initiative and stacking multiple subscription rounds is the core expression of an ALL IN strategy.

Protecting your own share is not only about taking responsibility for your decision, it’s about taking control of your future.

The feverish enthusiasm behind MPG’s subscription surge is the engine of profit and a powerful accelerator of wealth creation!

And when facing the "subscription dilution crisis," there’s no need for anxiety —it isn’t the real threat.

The real danger is giving up action and missing the opportunity.

You’re already standing in a profitable position. Now the key is to expand the scale of your gains, just like growing your financial garden and strengthening the private domain that belongs to you.

This is not only the pursuit of wealth, it is the defense of your future.

Your territory, your interests —sacred and untouchable!

This Friday, let’s take the evening to watch how the global wave around MPG continues to spread!

I look forward to us getting aligned on the same subscription plan!

NOVAQUANT