

MPG ' s ultimate victors, families gathering in the warmth of Thanksgiving—welcome to a new week destined to be inscribed in your personal wealth history!

May your Thanksgiving be warmed not only by the turkey on the table, but by the abundance of blessings that lie ahead and bring peace to your heart.

And for us, this year ' s Thanksgiving is far more than a gathering around a meal, it feels like a golden moment destiny has prepared especially for us—a moment of gratitude, a moment of harvest, and the beginning of a new era.

Let's begin with Thanksgiving.

In this country, Thanksgiving has never been just "a day to eat turkey."

It is a ritual of life— a moment that asks you to look back, pause, breathe, and give thanks.

Give thanks to the land, for it nurtures wealth, freedom, and the future.

Give thanks to the sun and moon, for time and cycles are the driving force behind all growth in wealth.

Give thanks to God, for order, logic, and natural laws are forever the market's underlying language.

Give thanks to the people around you, for without your team, your family, and your partners, no success could ever endure.

And today, we're not only giving thanks for the past, for our families, and for life itself...

We're also giving thanks for something that shakes the course of our destinies: MPG is officially going live this week.

My friends, this is the truest form of gratitude—because fate has pushed us into a position the on-chain era rarely grants: a seat at center stage.

To be candid, I know exactly what’s been on your minds these past days.

You’ve felt the rush of the subscription surge,
the anxiety of dilution,
the competition for strategic allocation, and the tension of that final day when every minute mattered.

And today, what you’ve been waiting for is not a rumor, not a concept, not another teaser, but the real thing: the official MPG announcement.

The listing is confirmed, no doubt about it!

It's like the Oscars every year —the Best Picture isn't a trailer, isn't a nomination, isn't a shortlist.

It's that moment when the host actually opens the envelope and announces:

"The Best New Token of the Year... MPG!"

In that instant, it's no longer a dream, no longer an idea.

It becomes reality —a fact, a conclusion, the final draft of destiny.

And do you realize this?

By reaching this moment, every one of you has taken part in this project's "prologue, climax, and curtain fall."

And now, you're about to take part in its "official premiere."

As Americans, we have a Thanksgiving tradition: sharing abundance and sharing grace.

And the listing of MPG aligns perfectly with that spirit of generosity and plenty.

For you, this is the genuine return earned through your effort, your judgment, your patience, and your action.

For the project team, this is the formal fulfillment of technology, ecosystem, consensus, and vision.

For everyone who participated in the subscription, this is the allocation you secured with your credibility finally entering the market.

For the market,

this is a standout project of the year— one capable of lighting a beacon of liquidity even in turbulent times.

American old-money families often say:

"Luck is a language you only understand in the rearview mirror. You think it was luck, but in truth, you had already positioned yourself correctly beforehand."

You stood in the right place.

You stood in the right moment.

You stood in the right cycle.

And the greatest gift of Thanksgiving is this: destiny has just placed you on the right side.

Old-money families have a principle called the "Autumn Harvest Rule."

It means: autumn is not the season for planting — autumn is the season for reaping.

What you planted in the spring, what you tended through the summer, will inevitably bear fruits in the fall.

The news of MPG' s listing is no coincidence, it is the harvest of the effort, judgment, and choices you ' ve made over the past six months.

This is the Autumn Harvest Rule. And that is the gift of destiny you have rightfully earned.

Let' s bring our focus back to this past Saturday.

While the rest of the world was enjoying the comfort of a "non-working day," while the "passive investors" were at home watching sports, our Quantitative Winners Legion was waiting for the final verdict of wealth itself!

While others were relaxing at home with their families, MPG released the full results of its public subscription!

And I hope every member of the Quantitative Winners Legion becomes the one who harvests the most, just like being the brightest star on the Oscar stage!

On MPG's Oscar stage, there is no "Best Actor" —only the "Best Quantitative Executor"

Every share you locked in was a "vote of confidence" you cast against uncertainty! Every risk you avoided was proof of your wisdom!

You were never a bystander— you were the center of the spotlight. Your net worth is the golden statuette in your hands.

And when the results are set, that moment becomes both God's blessing to you and the true return for all your effort!

So now, at this very moment, open your INDEXBIT crypto account and take a close look at the allocation you won— along with the shares you locked in through special channels.

Are they exactly in line with the strategies I guided you through?

I'm proud of you!

Buddy, let's look back for a moment: You've waited 17 long days, enduring subscription dilution, strategic allocation battles, key-quota scrambles, and the intensity of a countdown sprint.

Others may have seen nothing more than noise or excitement, but you saw:

the logic behind the sprint

the structure of dilution

the scarcity of allocation

the rhythm of capital entering the market

the explosive velocity of the final day and the fundamental appeal of the project itself

And then, on Saturday, in a single moment, everything was finalized by the official results.

What many people fail to realize is this:

the announcement of results is not merely the display of numbers, it is the market's formal seal on your wisdom and your actions.

Because you didn't simply participate— you positioned yourself ahead of time.

You didn't merely choose— you endured and stayed the course.

You didn't just place a bet— you stood at the very core of the structure.

That is why I say: when the outcome is sealed, it becomes the moment when Providence places its hand upon your shoulder.

And as the winter sun shines over the East Coast, we can't help but wonder, at what price will MPG enter the market?

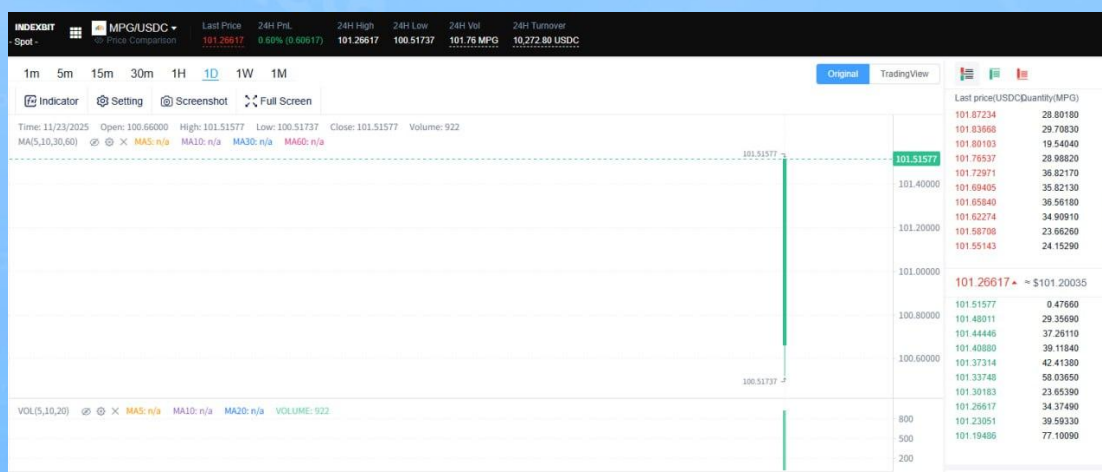

As the chart shows, and as confirmed by official disclosures, we can clearly determine that MPG's listing price is set to exceed 100 USDC.

Well, this is exactly what we expected. The early surge in market demand and the intensity of the scramble made this trajectory visible long before today, there was no reason for us not to understand where it was heading.

And now, hasn't it been fully confirmed?

The MPG public-subscription progress bar has shown, with complete clarity, how demand-driven pricing works, and from it, we've gained a highly reliable indicator of MPG's first-day listing price.

First, let's look back at the performance of recent new tokens such as ASYN. We saw them rise continuously for 1 – 2 days —a surge driven by relentless FOMO capital rushing in. Once the peak was reached, prices began to retreat—an early surge followed by a swift pullback.

Generates something

This shows that the members of my Quantitative Think Tank Center succeeded in selling at the very first moment of the opening and locking in profits. And because of that, the MPG subscription and allocation strategy secured an exceptional return over 2500%.

That is what safe investing looks like, locking in profits on MPG!

Meanwhile, those who rushed to buy in the secondary market, or ignored my instructions, will no doubt spend the coming days in deep regret...

After locking in these MPG profits, the very first thing to consider is repaying the guaranteed financing loan. As your guarantor, I will actively and kindly remind you to fulfill your personal obligation, because the results have already proven that this support plan was both successful and exceptionally effective.

#These outcomes represent an extraordinary example of wealth appreciation for you, and I believe they have surpassed many of your past investment results.

#By skillfully using financing as part of your strategy, you've proven that you're stepping into a higher level of investing, and that is the true sign of progress.

MPG ' s listing is like BTC ' s brilliance reappearing once more, igniting limitless springtime possibilities for the crypto market.

This isn ' t just coincidence, it feels as though BTC is lending its momentum to MPG ' s rise, infusing powerful energy into the wealth-building dreams of countless people.

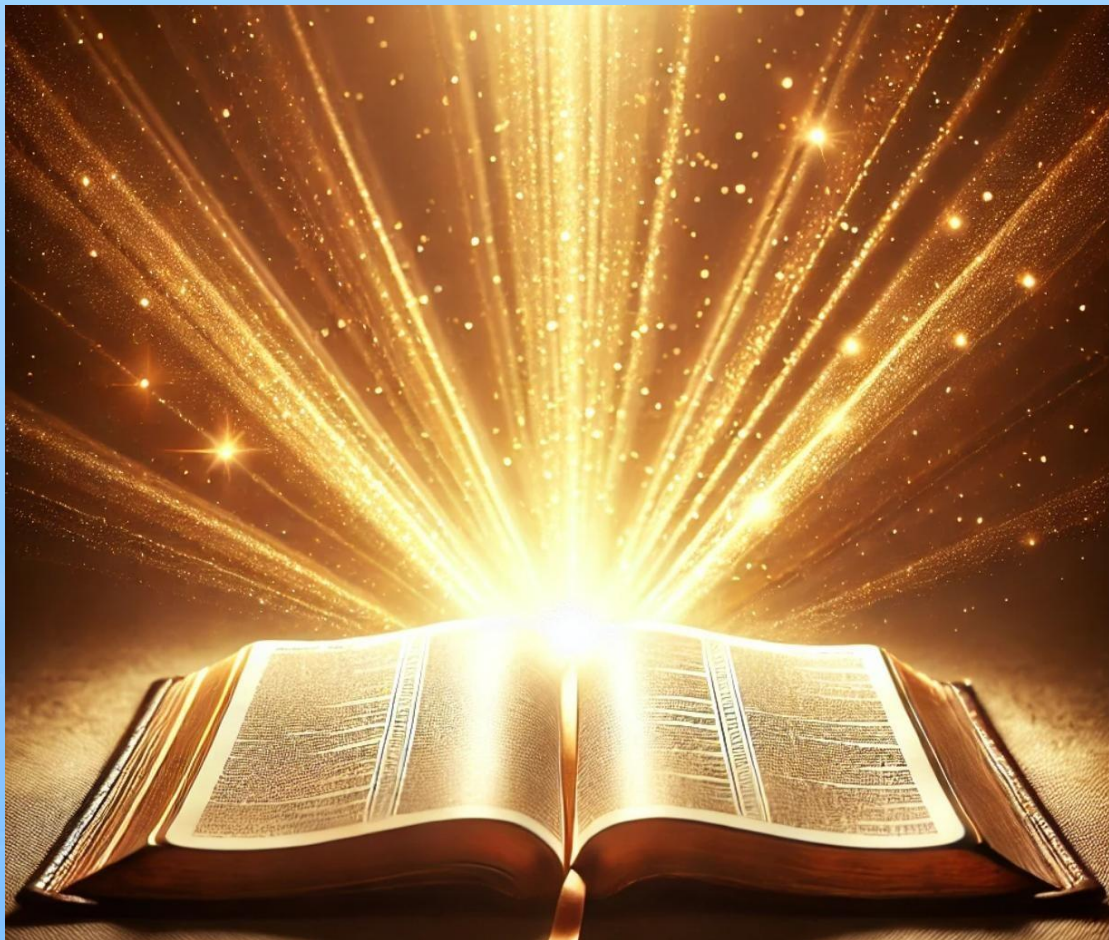

The MPG wealth-creation journey has moved from blueprint to reality, have your profits met your expectations?

Now is the crucial moment to assess your actions with clarity.

The core of every successful person is credibility, and it is the accumulation of that credibility that keeps them moving forward.

Repaying the financing and lending plan is not only a key step on your path to success, it is also the strongest proof of your reputation and sense of responsibility.

Action begins now, seize the opportunity and claim greater glory for your future!

To the ultimate MPG winners, the guardians of credibility this Thanksgiving:

Welcome back to this vibrant and validating Monday!

Did you enjoy your Thanksgiving holiday? And while you were surrounded by the warmth of family, did you also feel that a "sacred moment" in the market was approaching?

For the past 2 weeks, we've been openly dismissive of the noise coming from the Fed. But now, something has happened, something that feels almost like a supernatural arrangement!

The market came alive this Monday with unusual energy, and almost as if fulfilling a divine prediction, Fed officials suddenly shifted noticeably dovish right before the blackout period!

A day that should have awakened slowly, typically marked by low liquidity and muted sentiment, was instead lit up as if God Himself had flipped a "switch of light," bringing a full return of market vitality across the board.

And all of this is happening in the very same week that MPG is about to unveil its official listing debut.

Generates something

Buddies, this isn't coincidence, this is a "historic-level resonance"

It's the red carpet destiny laid out for you in advance.

Do you know what it means when Fed officials suddenly turn dovish right before the blackout period ahead of the December rate-cut meeting?

It means they've realized the economy is cooling, the market is fragile, and confidence urgently needs support.

The crypto market has made a strong comeback, not just a single token, but an entire sector warming up again. This is the return of a structural trend, not random fluctuation.

And the most astonishing part? The entire market's rhythm is moving in perfect sync with MPG's upcoming listing window.

Isn't this a "macro – on-chain convergence," almost prophetic in its timing?

Do you feel it? That sense that the entire market has decided to clear a path just for you.

There's a classic saying we all know well: "When you're standing in the right place, the world sends you signals on its own."

Your past choices, conviction, perseverance, and positioning have placed you at an incredibly rare "point of macro-level resonance."

What happened today is far more than a simple crypto rebound, it feels like the market has sent out an "invitation," inviting you to step into MPG' s listing celebration.

The Fed officials' sudden shift to a dovish stance is a confirmation that the past 3 months of economic cooling are real. And what does dovishness mean?

More liquidity

Stronger risk appetite

Higher crypto premiums

Better performance for new token listings

Isn' t that exactly what MPG needs?

Generates something

The crypto world is announcing the start, and the return, of a dual holiday blessing across Thanksgiving + Christmas:

The start reflects confidence in and expectations for 2026;

The return continues the same historical rhythm we saw at this very time last year.

Generates something

What this tells us is simple: on-chain capital is waking up again.

New-token sectors are gaining massive attention, the market is gathering around the next major trend, and MPG is standing right at the center of that momentum. Its listing isn't just a date chosen by the project team, it's a moment resonating with the entire on-chain cycle.

And you know what? Historically, before every "star new token of the year" goes live, the market shows a similar early warm-up rally. Because it's a signal: capital is preparing for the focal point of the chain.

Today's market feels like it just had a double shot of Blue Bottle coffee — energy, momentum, excitement, anticipation, all written clearly into every single candlestick on the chart.

What does this mean?

This week isn't just an ordinary week, it's a week that's been lit up.

A week personally pushed open by capital. A week that marks the official launch of MPG's exclusive [Crypto Oscar Gala]

Others see a rebound, you see a handoff from destiny.

Others see price increases, you see liquidity gathering again.

Others see a sentiment recovery, you see the very first beam of light reflected ahead of MPG's listing brilliance.

This is what it feels like to stand on the right track.

This is the destiny reserved for those who positioned themselves early.

Today is the day the market lights up ahead of schedule.

The day crypto wakes up again.

The day the Fed sends a dovish signal.

The day on-chain players around the world turn their eyes to one place.

The day MPG officially enters its listing countdown.

But above all, this is a day of honor for every MPG grand winner, for every guardian of credibility. This is the prologue to the destiny chapter reserved for true victors.

MPG' s first-day price trajectory mirrored the classic rhythm of BTC itself, an early dip, a swift rebound, fully revealing the market' s boundless expectations for its future.

This is a profoundly meaningful signal, showing that we are standing on the right side of the trend and have achieved a brand-new victory.

In moments like this — rare, life-changing moments of explosive wealth, how do you seize the opportunity and bring your dreams to life?

The answer is simple: increase your commitment and become an even stronger guardian of credibility.

Credibility is the foundation of all success, whether it' s financing, lending, or asset appreciation, every step must be grounded in responsibility and trustworthiness.

Let MPG' s success become your success.

And let your credibility become the strongest force guiding you into the future!

Contact the official customer service manager as soon as possible and state the amount you are repaying for your short-term financing.

Protect your absolute credibility, and uphold the noble spirit that defines true leadership in America!

Once you complete your debt repayment, you will receive a settlement certificate issued by the P2P credibility-rated creditor.

This certificate is the key safeguard that unlocks your account, giving you full freedom to manage the movement of your funds.

#The reason the exchange enforces this regulatory responsibility is simple: before the debt between both parties is fully settled, #no one can access the funds under your UID, neither you nor the P2P credibility-rated merchant can activate or move them.

This is explicitly stated in the key clauses of the financing and lending agreement as well.

If you require clarification, my assistant will gladly point out the relevant clauses for you!

Indeed, a number of our distinguished Quantitative Winners Legion members have already begun repaying their loans ahead of schedule, or settling them at maturity, and have received their settlement certificates.

This, in turn, reaffirms the credibility and institutional strength of our Quantitative Think Tank Center as a guarantor. So how do we demonstrate this key indicator?

#Take a look at the price performance of the NOVA Quantitative Think Tank Center ' s token. Its continuous rise reflects a clear intention from capital aggressively buying in, and it has also attracted attention from global institutional funds.

As the token ' s market value keeps climbing, #it indicates that we ' ve made solid progress in loan repayments under our member-guaranteed financing program.

Of course, we are still some distance away from achieving full repayment across the board. Which is exactly why we must take action, and actively fulfill our obligations!

If the repayment of a financing loan is seriously overdue, or if the repayment ultimately fails, what major problems could it lead to?

1. The debt burden on the Quantitative Think Tank Center, as guarantor, will increase materially, because these obligations arise directly from the guarantee. This could trigger a decline in valuation and potentially lead to a significant drop in the price of the NQT token!

Such a situation could even escalate into a major financial event — something neither you nor I ever want to see!

This is why I insist that you must repay your loan, even if it 's overdue, there are still friendly, negotiable solutions — it is not something that cannot be resolved.

2. For you personally, prolonged default may lead to continued disputes or legal actions initiated by P2P merchants.

Such complications can damage your long-term credibility and adversely affect both your professional and personal life.

#In sum, settling your loan is a duty you cannot evade, an obligation that is fully yours to fulfill!

Lasting happiness comes from the long-term strength of your credibility!

True joy comes from a heart grounded in gratitude!

As we turn toward 2026, how will our first-quarter stock investment plan unfold? #I will lead all members who have fulfilled their loan-repayment commitments into the next stage, advancing together toward our next investment victory.

I will be launching a specialized stock-investment program in the first quarter of 2026, supported by Acumeta:

1. By combining stock-options trading to capture high-velocity, short-term profit opportunities, Acumeta will provide precise forecasts based on key disclosures from second-quarter earnings reports. This will open the door to a new stream of returns in the stock market.
2. We will steadily expand our wealth-appreciation plan by allocating into new long-term equity positions — including comprehensive strategic participation in major technology leaders such as Google and other high-value long-horizon stocks. The goal is to sustain and amplify this wave of substantial wealth creation over the long term.

At the same time, we will build a long-term, collaboratively optimized quantitative-strategy team, and operate in the format of a global-asset-allocation family office to provide full services.

This direction is now possible because the MPG investment project has already generated over $1M in returns, completing the initial-stage objective.

Beyond the high-yield Q1 wealth-option returns in our 2026 equity trading plan, we will further deploy Acumeta's supplemental automated digital-asset trading on weekends and during equity market off-hours, in order to build a well-matched return structure.

#This means that all my members will receive presale purchase rights for Acumeta, while also upgrading their own trading services.

With the support of advanced fintech tool, you will achieve even stronger asset-appreciation results.

#And especially in automated trading, you will gain even better performance — while you're working, while you're meeting friends, while you're on vacation — Acumeta will execute global trading strategies based on your settings and conditions, delivering profit around the clock.

So what kind of members will qualify for the new Q1 stock-profit program?

#Only those who have successfully repaid their financing loans and obtained their settlement certificates.

This serves as the key foundation for the free and flexible management of your own wealth.

#All of your capital must be placed under a well-defined, forward-looking, and highly efficient planning framework.

#And once your profits exceed 5M USD, you will be eligible for the Premium Family Office Support Program within the Quantitative Think Tank Center — ensuring you receive comprehensive, in-depth strategic guidance across investment returns, family wealth allocation, and long-term philanthropic initiatives.

I understand that you may be facing some obstacles while gathering funds to repay your loan, or you might be running into limits when trying to purchase USDC. But in my view, these are small issues, as long as you clearly express your genuine intent, you' ll always find good communication channels, whether through a bank wire transfer or through a P2P credibility-rated merchant. Good-faith communication always opens doors.

And of course, from a perspective of gratitude, considering the support and financing assistance the P2P credibility-rated merchants have provided you in the past, you have every reason to honor the repayment terms exactly as outlined in the agreement!

#After all, gratitude is a fundamental part of American cultural identity.

And the spirit awakened in us before Thanksgiving is exactly what we' re now putting into practice —the spirit of someone who truly represents American values.

#The spirit of gratitude carries deep historical roots and cultural meaning.

Buddy, this is a moment for gratitude —but even more, it' s a moment to guard your credibility.

Share your joy with everyone around you, and stand firmly on your reputation without giving up an inch!

Wishing you outstanding success with MPG. Stay tuned for my program on Tuesday, see you then!

